

Enough

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Overcome darkness, dispel the fringe llewnatics

By Montana Mind

Another election cycle, and with it, the standard ghoulish parade. Emerging from cold darkness, to shake your hand in broad daylight. Enter the bloated candidates; They seek to do the same to your government. They run with blatant disregard for both term limits, and general decency alike. Whether they don't know what logical fallacies are, or they're just especially fond of them, is anyone's guess. The probability that many of these debased creatures have entirely forgotten that there is a guiding document called the Montana state constitution is high. The lack of remembrance being the result of pharmaceutical drug addiction, may be even higher.

Again, they've just told you, that they have saved rural hospitals. However, one nurse, after another, tells you to avoid the hospitals. Such avoidance, they warn, may just save your life. To your own eyes, many of the candidates don't appear to be health experts. In fact, some cut images of beings unfit to provide health advice to toxic waste dumps, and when they speak, you're not certain they're even human. You question your memory.

You seem to remember when the people of Montana were healthy. On the street corner five people are lost to their screens.

In place of sustenance, children are served bio-engineered cafeteria food, and you wonder if that somehow fulfills their right to a clean and healthful environment. You suppress such thoughts though, because a pretense of dignity seems a better version, than none at all. At least there's the meadowlark's song you tell yourself. However, you aren't quite able to entirely vanquish, from deep within yourself, concern that it may not survive the data center – and you don't consent.

And, all this time, you can almost hear a distant hum from a faraway printing factory, while you behold, an army of signs, printed byproducts of industry, red white and blue, and rainbow colors too. They march along the boulevards and ambush you along the back roads. It's enough – you retreat to the solitude of home. Where alas, you've been robo-called again.

Why are we so tired, and what can we do about it? At M.T. Minds – Nate White for Montana, we are of the mind that delusion and denial are exhausting. We believe assessing and accepting where we are is necessary to improving our quality of life. We believe that many of our state representatives knowingly disregard Montanan's unalienable rights. They have broken our trust, and we can do better. Their back-alley dealings are impoverishing us. We seek to help make Montana affordable again for everyday Montanans like us. We seek to resurrect our vanishing dignity.

Pandering to out-of state-tourists is not sustainable, it is a road map to a prostitution colony. We value both industry and a healthy and clean environment – we need both. We are reviewing a simplified tax plan that will eliminate property taxes. We support secure housing for Montana residents. In 1950, 70% of the food consumed in Montana was grown or raised in Montana. Today, 3% of the food consumed in Montana is grown or raised in Montana. We are told to feed the world. We need to feed ourselves first – with healthy food.

Montana representatives prioritize telegraphing ruling-class-agendas into our homes, before ever considering serving us. Montana representatives seek to deny farmers the right to repair and modify their own equipment. We believe that Montanans are better served if we protect the freedom of our farmers, ranchers and mechanics, along with every other Montanan.

We believe that a healthy Montana is imperative, rather than a pipe-dream. Together, we can both get back to basics, and innovate!

This fall, overcome darkness; WRITE-IN NATE WHITE (Senate District 9, Montana) 🗳️